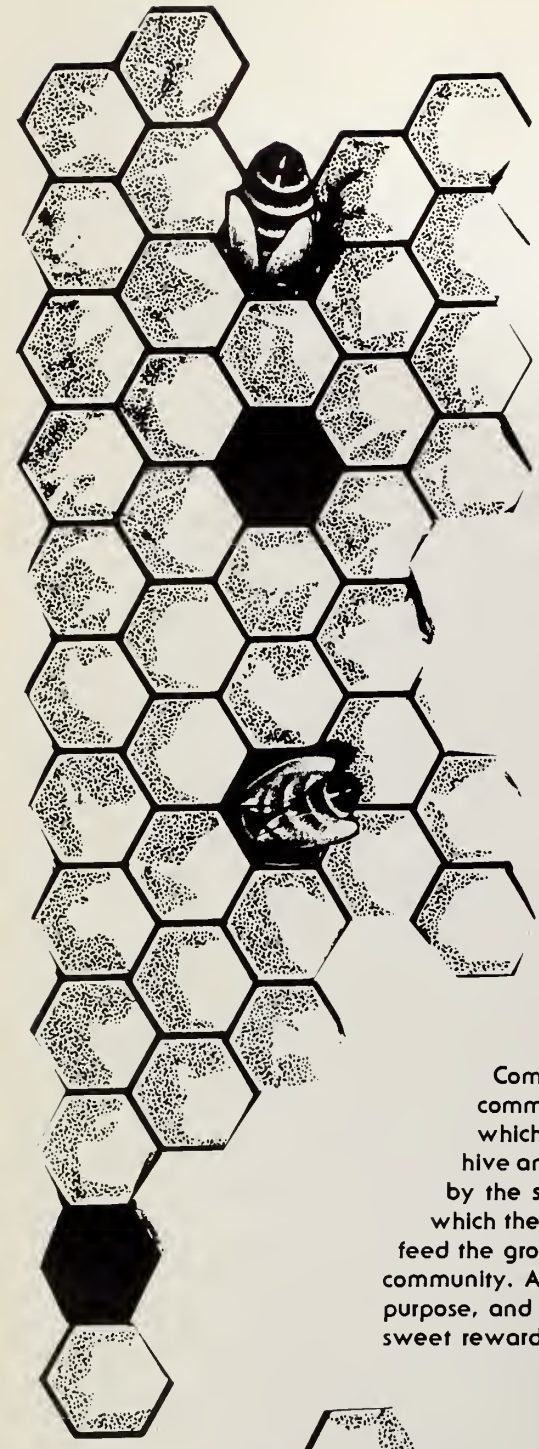
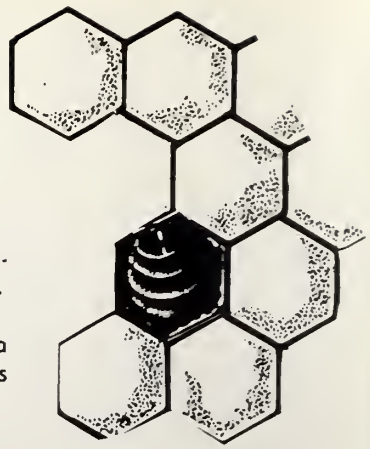
Salem State College

Salem, Massachusetts





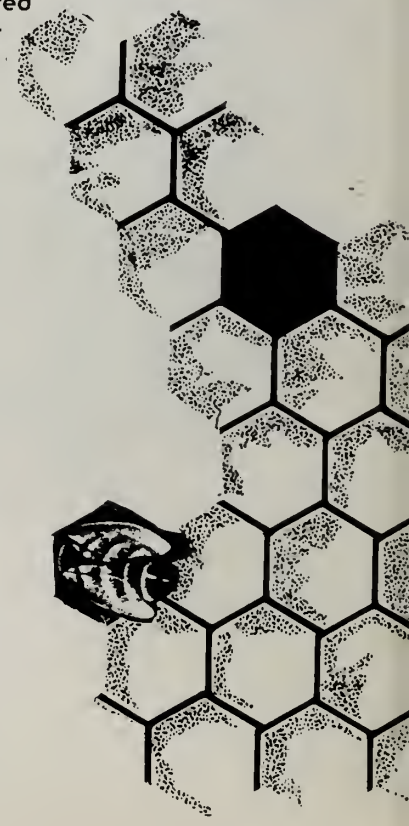
Our earliest recollections probably are of an alphabet primer . . . A is for apple . . . B is for bee . . .

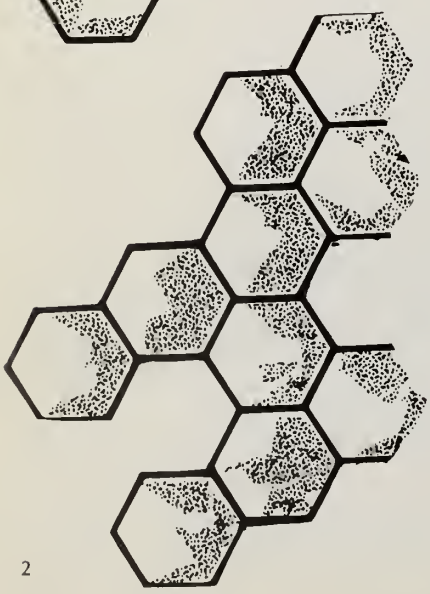
This book is centered on a theme designed to be a parallel between what our College experience has been to the life of the bee.

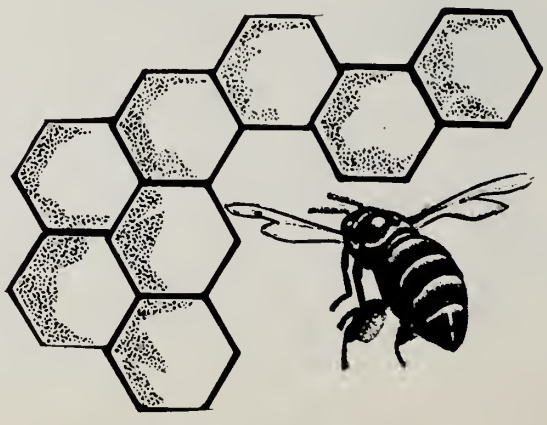
Consider it, if you will, that the Bee represents more than juenvile picture book subject matter, or Romper Room or John Belushi jokes. Down through history the Bee has stood as a symbol for royalty, epitomizing industry and lofty ideas. The bee was the center of the Coat of Arms for the Barberini Family of 16th Century Italy, and as the family rose to the heights of the Italian aristocracy, the simple bee became gilded and, during the reign of Pope Urban VII from the house of Barberini, these same gilded bees were intricatly carved and applied to the great doors of the Vatican Library. The bee and what it symbolizes appears in many other Coats of Arms, and during the reign of Napoleon Bonaparte, the industrious honey gatherers, encircled by a laurel wreath was synonymous with Napoleon and the Empire.

And the sting . . . not only a painful prick, but some bee stings can actually prove fatal, not only to the bee, but to the victim. What passion and intensity must be aroused for the insect to be willing to die just to fend off an intruder. And so strong is their desire to claim their territory, that masses of killer bees swarm northward from South America, driven on not only by the quest to expand what they deem is theirs, but by each other; led by themselves and each a leader, a massive community united by a common goal and task.

Community . . . each individual bee has his own function which benefits the whole community and hive, and as such, each is taken care of by the others. Some bees are scouts which fly for miles from the hive to seek out the best flowers and trees; they return to the hive and the pollinators and gatherers go to the flowers selected by the scouts; they return to the hive to deposit their nectar which the workers and drones direct to specially crafted cells to feed the growing imago and pupae and the remainder of the community. All united and respectful of each other's function, purpose, and individuality within the hive; all join in on the sweet reward of the honey.







And honey . . . one substance which science and man have been unable to duplicate. The sweetest and richest and stickiest sutff which man has put to use for thousands of years. Its composition, a marvel in itself, and a puzzle. When Lord Carnovan opened the tomb of Tutankahem a sealed jar was found, and in it, honey. Not only was it easily distinguishable by the way it ran out of the ornate jar, but by the way it tasted. It virtually had remained immortal – and no preservatives added.

During the past decade much attention has been focused on the wonderous powers of bee pollen – that marvelous stuff which fluffs off the hairy hind legs of the bee before it enters the hive. So intense are the advocates for this prowess builder, that special depositories have been designed at the base of apiaries so as not to lose one precious grain of this dust.

It is only fitting that, before you continue through this Clipper that you think about your personal experiences, travels and adventures throughout your time at Salem State. Please reflect upon this past with attention to the bee. It is hoped you have built a sense of community here; that you scouted and searched for just the very best of experiences; that you focused with your college mates in improving your community; that you expanded your best efforts for that one goal; that the degree you've received, the growth you've experienced and the memories you've acquired will endure. For like honey, this is in itself, your own, sweet reward.

Another year, another Smith Cup

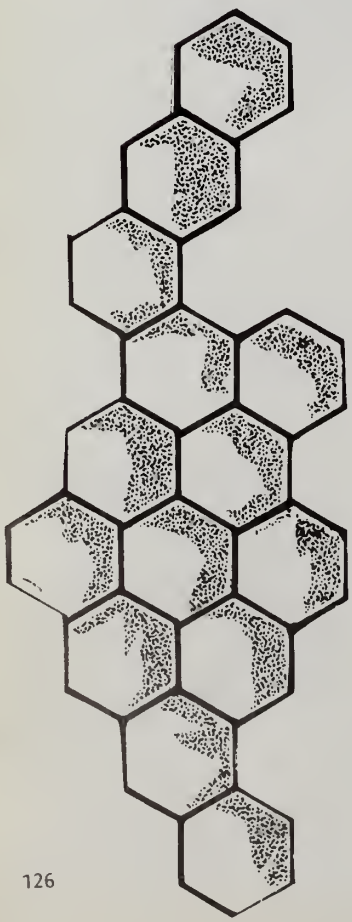
By BILL KIPOURAS
Sports Editor

You can almost rank it up there with death and taxes, and the Red Sox folding.

Salem State once again has won the Howard C. Smith Cup, symbolic of overall athletic supremacy in the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference

The Vikings' sports program didn't produce as many champions as it did when it captured the Smith Cup a year ago, but its sixth consecutive Smith Cup and eighth in the 12-year history of the award was not without some celebrity.

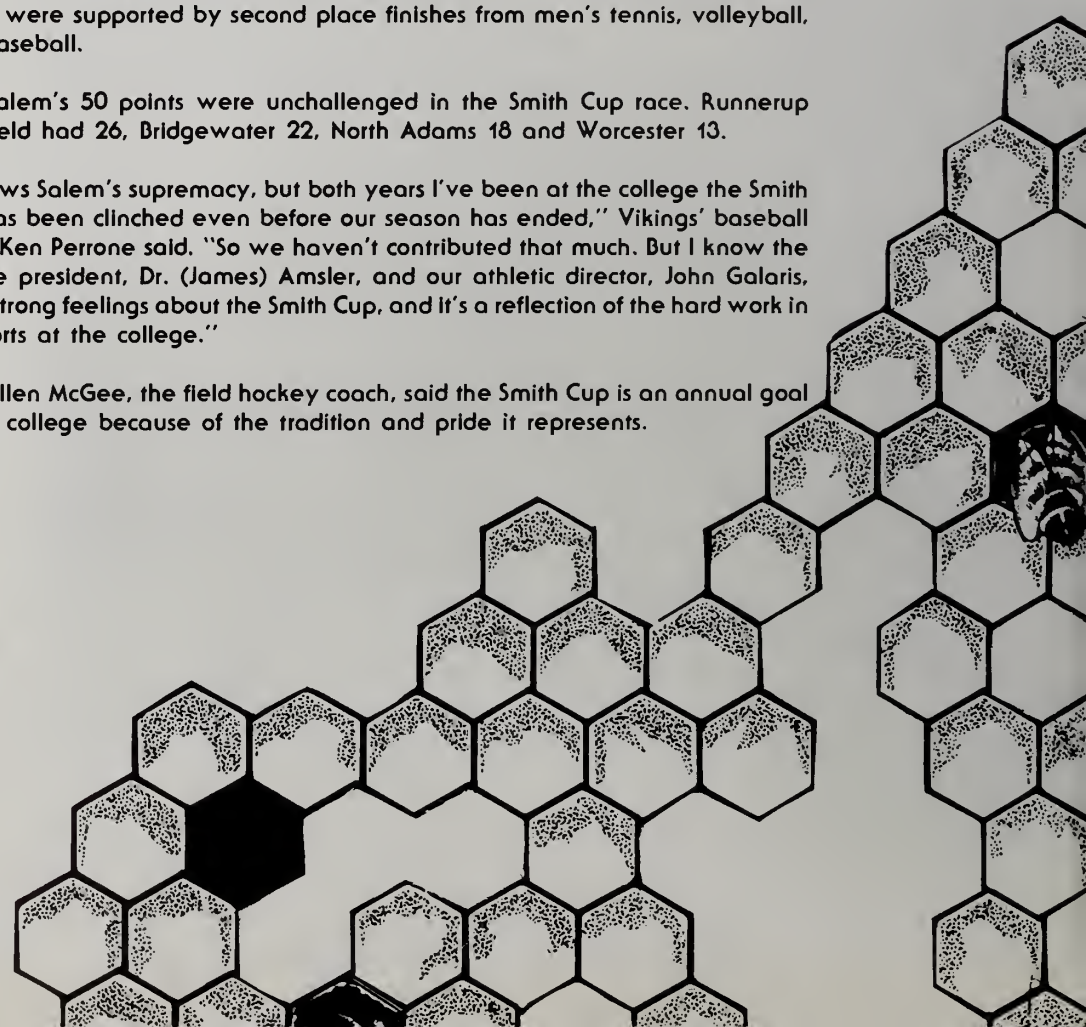
Although it won five team titles this past college year, three short of its '83 total, it still wound up with his highest point total in leading the Smith Cup standing, garnering 50. The Vikings led the way in golf, women's tennis, field hockey, soccer and women's basketball and tied for first in ice hockey. Those six title claims were supported by second place finishes from men's tennis, volleyball, and baseball.



And Salem's 50 points were unchallenged in the Smith Cup race. Runnerup Westfield had 26, Bridgewater 22, North Adams 18 and Worcester 13.

"It shows Salem's supremacy, but both years I've been at the college the Smith Cup has been clinched even before our season has ended," Vikings' baseball coach Ken Perrone said. "So we haven't contributed that much. But I know the college president, Dr. (James) Amsler, and our athletic director, John Galaris, have strong feelings about the Smith Cup, and it's a reflection of the hard work in all sports at the college."

Maryellen McGee, the field hockey coach, said the Smith Cup is an annual goal at the college because of the tradition and pride it represents.



"We don't have a football team, or the tradition of some larger schools, but the Smith Cup gives us a sense of tradition," McGee said.

"Salem State is known everywhere we go. I personally feel it's important for field hockey to uphold its part in the Smith Cup. Early on I'll explain to the team what the Smith Cup is all about, and what makes the competition for it so keen that our athletes are well acquainted with the other athletes from the state colleges. In a lot of cases they played against each other in high school, or were teammates. I think pride in a program is absolutely essential. I tell them it's an honor to play Salem State field hockey and a great honor to win the Smith Cup."

Tim Shea, the women's basketball coach, said the Smith Cup is even valuable as a recruiting vehicle.

"As anything, the more you win it it seems to put more emphasis on winning it again," Shea said, "I feel it's important to win the Smith Cup, especially at the Division 3 level where athletes play more than one sport. At this level, student-athletes are looking to be active in more than one sport, and when you can present another sport, and tell them, it's a solid, winning sport, then it can make a difference in a prospect's decision. In this respect, it does help in the overall recruiting.

"And I think everybody at the college enjoys the Cup sitting in the trophy case. The fact we've won it so often is a big plus for Salem State."

Abigail Mason, the gymnastics coach, said she knew Mr. Smith while attending Jacobs Pillow, the University of The Dance, in Lee. Thus, the Smith Cup is especially meaningful to her.

"One of the dance students was a good friend of Mrs. Smith. He had a camp nearby and we'd visit. He was a great support of gymnasics," Mason said. "Howard Smith has a strong feeling for athletics and good sportsmanship, and devoted a great deal of time to young people. I came to the college in 1966 to start gymnastics. Volleyball and field hockey were the only other competitive women's sports then.

"It's been great to see the women's programs grow, and the women of Salem have done a fantastic job," Mason said. "Salem has been one of the leaders in developing a quality athletic program."

Certainly, George Jacobson's golf teams have contributed to the Smith Cup dynasty.

ITALIAN BEES

They dance the hornpipe
through my neighbor's garden,
in striped jerseys,
bawdy sailors on shore leave, lasciviously kissing the deep-throated blossoms.

My neighbor holds their queen
for ransom, pirates their gold.
The plot turns seedier.
They crown a virgin queen
and swarm over the fields, plundering peaceful hives.

I discover a subversive
humming in my kitchen,
sipping at my jam,
It nuzzles my face,
neck, arms. I hold open
the door for it to leave,
my cheeks burning.

MUSHROOMS

The rain's so fine it abrades,
and the mist just above the lake moves like smoke above a mound of wet leaves.
Here in the park under the oak trees
near the arched wood bridge, mushrooms grow. The mist presses down on water still too warm for the air,
as though it could grind in the chill of ice-
the year's in this dark phase. But the mushrooms rise solid in the kindling decay of leaves,
flesh-smooth thimbles in a small round patch,
and astonishing - orange and flaming pink.

TOO MUCH IMPORTANCE

TOO much importance to the fact that you're naked.
I'm empty of feelings for you

Like being washed up on the shore of "I'm sorry"
your feet burning on the sands of "It's OK"

But it's still cold, we're still alone,
and the radio is still softly playing.

And the fact that you're naked is still much in my . . .

thoughts. I'm feeling sad at the thought of
no thought of you
in my mind.

Dedication

The 1984 Clipper is dedicated to two outstanding women within the professional community. It is in honor of their industry, dedication and commitment to students. Their continued support, accessibility and positive attitudes have been recognized by the Class of 1984.

Donna Tosches

Mrs. Donna Tosches of the Registrar's office has managed to solve more problems for students and done it without seeking any recognition other than that the student was helped along through the institution. She has proven time and time again her commitment to students and the College. This past year she served as the Advisor to the Student Government Association making her skills and attributes noticeable to not only those in need of her services, but to every student who had the pleasure of working with her.

Besty Giannoccaro

Mrs. Betsy Giannoccaro has similarly served the students. Her grace and chorus added a spark wherever she went. She gave unselfishly of her time at workshops and meetings for students, and truly shared of herself each time. As Program Assistant of the Campus Center, many, many students had contact with her and their lives were made easier by her willingness to service them.

Dear Graduate:

On behalf of the members of the Alumni Association I want to congratulate you on your graduation from Salem State College. That degree you have earned from Salem State is the key that opens the door to new beginnings professionally. We trust that your future contains much happiness and success--both personally and professionally.

We welcome you to share part of that future with us as lifelong members of the Salem State College Alumni Association. The Association numbers over 20,000 alumni, many of whom are active participants in our alumni programs. These programs include the traditional Alumni Weekend in the Spring and Homecoming Weekend in the Fall.

Five year class reunions often are planned around those weekend dates but can also be held at anytime throughout the year. Additional program offerings include seminars and workshops centered on self-improvement and special interest topics, career advice, as well as just plain fun socials. To be kept abreast of all of our activities, we urge you to keep us informed of all addreas changes beginning this graduation year.

We encourage you to visit Alumni House anytime you find yourself in the area.

Please plan to join us. Your active participation and support are both needed and welcomed.

Good luck.

Sincerely,

John L. George

If we shadows have offended,
Think but this, and all is mended;
That you have but slumber'd here,
While these visions did appear.
And this weak and idle theam,
No more yielding but a dream,
Gentles, do not reprehend;
If you pardon, we will mend.
And as I am honest Puck,
If we have unearned luck
Now to 'scape the serpent's tongue,
We will make amends ere long:
Else the Puck a liar call.
So, good night unto you all!
Give me your hands, if we be friends,
And Robin shall restore amends.
